AKI Theology – Daily Theological Reflection

August 2026

Purpose

AKI Theology seeks a faithful understanding of Holy Scripture through prayer, careful study of the biblical languages, and humility before God. It explores how mathematics, science, and philosophy may illuminate the created order while remaining subordinate to the authority of Scripture.

Foundational Convictions

- God is the eternal Creator and the Author of all created order.
- Scripture is God's self-revelation; creation bears witness to God's wisdom and power.
- Science investigates creation; mathematics studies order within creation.
- Intrinsic Order is understood by AKI as reflecting the intelligibility God has embedded within creation.
- Christ is the center of creation and redemption; in Him all things hold together (Colossians 1:17).
- The resurrection of Jesus Christ guarantees that creation is moving toward renewal rather than ultimate chaos.

Today's Reflection

Today's discussions focused on the biblical meaning of creation, the Hebrew verbs of Genesis, the relation between light and darkness, and the distinction between biblical teaching and AKI's philosophical proposals. AKI continues to affirm that Scripture is the foundation, while exploring whether concepts such as accessibility and intrinsic order may provide philosophical models for reflecting on the created order.

A Hope for AKI

God is the Author of all created order. The created order bears witness to God's wisdom, while redemptive history reveals His victory. Because Jesus Christ has risen, creation is not moving toward ultimate chaos, but toward the renewal and consummation God has promised. AKI joyfully confesses the biblical hope that the Lord Jesus Christ shall ultimately be acknowledged by every nation, to the glory of God the Father.

Closing Prayer

May the LORD continually correct our errors, deepen our understanding, and keep us faithful to His truth. May every scientific discovery, mathematical insight, and theological reflection lead us to greater reverence for Christ, through whom and for whom all things were made.

Soli Deo Gloria.

Hallelujah! Glory be to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Ghost. Amen and Amen.
